

STAY GRANTED KILLER

"Break" Is Believed Near In Peter Levine Case

Father Seeks Son's Kidnapers

Pleading for a chance to negotiate with kidnapers of his son, Murray Levine, left, prosperous lawyer, asked federal and local authorities not to interfere, and requested newspapermen and friends to remain away from his New Rochelle, N. Y., home, pictured above. The kidnaped lad, blue-eyed 12-year-old Peter Levine, right, reportedly held for $60,000 ransom, was last seen as he left school to return to his home. Philip S. Tilden, director of public safety in New Rochelle, officially announced the abduction on the eve of the sixth anniversary of the kidnapping of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. Federal agents refused to discuss the case, but said they would act in accordance with the father's wishes.

Reports Persist That Kidnapers Been Contacted

$60,000 Ransom Note Demanded for Return of Small Boy

LETTER FROM YOUTH

Note, Believed to Have Been Written by Boy, Is Received

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y.—(P)—Police expectantly awaited a "break" Thursday in the case of Peter Levine, 12, missing a week today, as reports persisted that a contact had been made with the supposed kidnapers. A note in the schoolboy handwriting of Levine, 12, begging "dad" to pay out the $60,000 ransom demanded, turned up as the father continued his efforts to communicate with the abductors. "Dear dad," he wrote, "please give these men the money. I have a bad cold. Peter."

This, the boy's first known communication with his father, was scrawled on the back of a third ransom letter, reported on good authority to have been found on a vacant lot adjoining the synagogue of Rabbi Abraham Nowak. The rabbi declined to discuss this latest ransom demand, which instructed the father, Murray Levine, a Fifth Avenue (New York) lawyer, to drop a package of bank notes of $10, $20, $50 and $100 denominations, at the base of a street light pole in the Bronx. Levine was understood to be considering a third public appeal, by radio, to "those who may be holding my boy." Again he expressed hope that the authorities would leave him with an entirely free hand to negotiate; again he denied there had been any substantial progress.

Two methods for payment of the ransom have been suggested. In a communication the kidnapers were represented as having put forward a melodramatic scheme by which Levine emissaries were to make marks with green chalk upon a New York city elevated train pillar as a signal that the family was ready to pay.

Cage Tournaments to Open Thursday

Hempstead and Nevada Teams Are Favorites to Win Titles

Hempstead and Nevada county basketball teams will play a big part in the annual district tournaments scheduled at Lewisville and Prescott this week. The Bobcats are scheduled to play Stamps in the fourth game at Lewisville Thursday night. Hope is a pre-tournament favorite to take the title. Bodeaux and Prescott loom as favorites in the annual senior boys tournament of district nine, opening Thursday night at Prescott.

The Blivins junior boys, district 10 winners, will meet Scotland at Little Rock Friday in the state meet. The Columbus senior girls will play in the district 10 tournament for girls, to open at Ashdown Friday. All the tournaments will continue through Saturday.

Grand Jury Refuses to Indict Mrs. Kelly

Howard County Body Returns "No Bill" in Shooting of J. R. Page

NASHVILLE, Ark.—(P)—The Howard county grand jury concluded Wednesday an investigation of the November shooting of a Nashville alderman and voted "no bill" in the case of Mrs. R. C. Kelly, 68, mother of Governor E. D. Rivers of Georgia, who had been charged with assault with intent to kill after the incident. "After a thorough investigation and with all the evidence before it, the grand jury did not indict Mrs. Kelly," said Prosecuting Attorney Byron Goodson. "The grand jury reported a 'no bill' which is, in effect, a refusal to indict."

Under Arkansas law, subsequent grand juries must investigate the case until three years elapsed from the date of the shooting, Goodson said. (Continued on Page Three)

Goes to Town After 35 Years

Although Andrew Reese, above, lives within four miles of downtown San Francisco, he recently visited the city for the first time in 35 years. "Yep," commented Reese, "35 years sure do make a lot of changes." He liked the tall buildings and new, bay bridges, but growled through his whiskers and headed back to his little shack when he found he could no longer shoot squirrels in the parks.

Lent Season Will Begin on Friday

Union Meeting Will Be Held at First Christian Church

A committee composed of representatives of the women's auxiliaries of the Protestant churches of Hope has issued a call for the observance of the World Day of Prayer on Friday, March 4, the first day of Lent.

A union meeting will be held at the First Christian church at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, when a special program will be presented. All the women of all the churches of the city are invited and urged to join in this fellowship of prayer round the world. A special day of prayer has been observed by the women of the churches since 1871, when the movement began among the women of the Presbyterian church. By 1920, both in Canada and in the United States, church women of all denominations united in prayer, the first Friday in Lent being selected as the "Day of Prayer for Missions."

Used Car Dealers to Open Campaign

Bargains Announced by Hope Dealers in National Drive

Hope automobile dealers prepared Thursday to participate in the National Used Car Exchange Week which opens this Saturday and will continue through next week.

Hope dealers who have special bargains are Archer Motor company, Young Chevrolet, B. R. Hamm Motor company, Bryan Motor company, Gib Lewis Garage, Hope Auto company and Hempstead Motor company. The campaign, to be known as "National Used Car Exchange Week" is an outgrowth of recent conferences at the White House between President Roosevelt and leaders of the automobile industry. The President has been advised of plans for the campaign, which is the first cooperative effort ever undertaken in which all American automobile manufacturers have taken part. The campaign is timed at the outset of the spring selling season when both new and used cars usually begin to move in great volume. It is aimed primarily at stimulating the disposal of used car stocks now in dealer hands. Once this is accomplished, a substantial increase in car manufacturing schedules and employment of wage earners in the automobile factories is anticipated.

Brockelhurst Not to Go to "Chair" at Dawn Friday

Confessed Killer Gets Two-Week Stay by Governor Bailey

SIMMS IS ALSO SAVED

Ax-Slayer, Scheduled to Die, Granted Stay of Execution

LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—A two-week stay of execution was granted at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon by Governor Bailey for Lester Brockelhurst, 24, confessed killer of Victor A. Gates, Little Rock landowner. The governor also issued a similar two-week stay of execution for Joe Newt Simms of Traskwood, Ark., sentenced to death for the ax-slaying of his wife at their home last Mother's Day. Brockelhurst and Simms were scheduled to be electrocuted at dawn Friday at Tucker State Prison farm.

Court Denies Appeal LITTLE ROCK.—(P)—The Arkansas Supreme court refused Thursday to grant Lester Brockelhurst, Galesburg, Ill., confessed triple slayer, a last minute appeal that would have saved him from execution at dawn Friday for the slaying of Victor Gates, a Little Rock landowner. Brockelhurst's lawyers sought an appeal from the ruling of Circuit Judge T. G. Parham of Pine Bluff, who Wednesday refused to order a sanity hearing for the condemned man.

Lawyers then turned to Governor Carl Bailey for a 10-day stay of execution to permit time to file a petition for habeas corpus writ in federal court.

Governor Bailey Thursday afternoon had the petition under advisement. Brockelhurst was convicted in Lonoke circuit court several months ago after being returned to Arkansas from an eastern state where he was captured, along with Bernice Felton, his sweetheart companion. While being held in jail, Brockelhurst confessed, officers said, to two other killings.

In Lonoke circuit court he was convicted and sentenced to the electric chair for the hitch-hike slaying and robbery of Victor Gates who had given Brockelhurst and his companion, the Felton girl, a "lift" in his automobile. The crumpled body of Gates was found in a ditch near Lonoke.

23 Per Cent Hike in British Taxes

New Army Appropriations Are Voted—China Scores in War With Japs

By the Associated Press Britain jolted her potential enemies and taxpayers Thursday with a 23 per cent increase in army appropriations, which will be $532,500,000 for 1938-39, an increase of $121,630,000 over 1937-38 appropriations.

Fallen Soviet officials Thursday testified in Moscow they had bargained for British aid to overthrow the Stalin regime. The French parliament Thursday reached a truce which amounted the way for the enactment of the first section of Premier Chautemps labor code legislation, quieting threats of an immediate cabinet crisis, assuaging France's labor troubles. Japanese military authorities Thursday admitted that Chinese guerrilla units had scored heavily against a Japanese invasion of the area north of Nanking during the week. There was little fighting in Spain's civil war Thursday.

Abandoned Town Is Put Up For Sale

MELBOURNE, Australia.—(P)—Want to buy a town? Here's your chance. "Town for sale: 12 houses and four other buildings; some of the finest trout fishing in the state; beautiful mountain scenery; electric light and water, postoffice, store and excellent motor road from Melbourne." This notice, which appeared here recently, adds that the town may be purchased on a five-year installment plan if the buyer wishes. The town formerly was used to house men working on a project of the state rivers and water supply commission at Eildon Weir.

Robbery Plot Is Foiled
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(P)—Officers of four north-west Arkansas counties hunted Thursday for a man who armed and masked attempted to abduct A. H. Berry from his home late Wednesday night in an apparent effort to rob the Valley Bank of Hindsville of which Berry is cashier. The officers found bars on a rear window of the bank which had been sawed and the bank entered. Nothing had been taken, the officers reported.

Boy Scout Drive to Open in Hope Next Tuesday, March 8

Movement Receives Endorsement of Pastor of Baptist Church

BUILDS CHARACTER

Church to Sponsor Scout Troop as Auxiliary to Regular Work

E. F. McFaddin, District Chairman of the Boy Scouts of America for Tuesday, March 8, the annual drive Hempstead county, has announced that for the Boy Scouts will be staged in this city. As a part of this drive, Mr. McFaddin has requested the help of each sponsor institution of the Boy Scouts to give a testimonial endorsement. Today the Star publishes the testimonial endorsement written by Rev. W. R. Hamilton, pastor of the First Baptist church of Hope, Ark. Rev. Hamilton, in endorsing the Boy Scout activities, stated as follows:

By W. R. Hamilton
The development of human character is more important than the development of anything which is merely physical. To grow a boy of greater moment than to grow a horse. A noble man is worth infinitely more than the finest thoroughbred which any farm has ever produced.

A beautiful personality is a more wonderful accomplishment than a beautiful American Beauty Rose. A life lived on a high plane for others is a greater contribution to the world than an artistic painting. It is more important to develop artists than it is to develop works of art. There can be no art without artists.

Any movement which makes a real contribution to the life of living is worthy of the support of high-thinking, unselfish men and women. Serious study and great effort have produced the Bessemer process of hardening steel, the complicated production of duraluminum and the beneficial use of radium.

One of the chief reasons for the development of these arts is that money which might be derived therefrom. While we have been learning to produce many marvelous scientific processes and products there has been developing a generation of young men a large number of whom have police records. Money spent to prevent crime goes further and accomplishes more than money spent to capture and punish criminals.

"The human race is very busy; it has to take care of itself, and to feed its young; it must conquer the earth—perhaps it has not time to study Jim and Jack and Charlie, and Mary and Emily and Jane, as problems. But, if it had, would it not perhaps pay?" Thus wrote an editorialist of a generation ago. Have we heeded the thought which prompted his editorial? Our instincts of intense love for boys and girls are not enough; we should do all we can to translate that love into high and beneficial endeavor upon behalf of the ones we love.

It is because of these facts that I consented, at the request of Mr. E. F. McFaddin, to write this article for the Hope Star; it is because of these facts that, as pastor of First Baptist church, he requested me to write; it is because of these facts that First Baptist church has erected, and is paying for, a modern educational plant. It is because of these facts that twenty-seven officers and teachers in the Intermediate and Junior departments of our Sunday school are giving themselves to teaching the all-important way of life in the Word of God; it is because of these facts that we have Training Units meeting on Sunday night; it is because of these facts that we have Royal Ambassador and Girls Auxiliary chapters meeting during the week to train boys and girls in appreciation of life's finest opportunities; and it is because of these facts that our church is sponsoring a Boy Scout troop.

In the complex life of town and city, we have a social obligation to our boys. Boys are influenced by the attitudes of other people almost as much as they are by their own parents. It is important, therefore, that right attitudes should be developed. No man or woman who is interested

Two Arrested With 6 Gallons of Liquor

Leo Hatch and Robert Collins Are Nabbed With Moonshine at Patmos

Leo Hatch, 28, and Robert Collins, 27, negro, were arrested at 8 p. m. Wednesday near Patmos with six gallons of moonshine liquor in a raid led by Deputy Sheriff Reginald Bearden and assisted by Jess Quillian and Guy Cummings, revenue agents. They were taken to Texarkana when Hatch pleaded guilty and was held under $500 bond. The negro, described as a "helper," was released. A truck they were driving when officers arrested them is being held.

18 Known Dead in California Storm

Others Are Reported Missing as Flood Envelopes the State

LOS ANGELES.—(P)—The fury of a death-dealing storm abated in southern California Thursday, leaving a hundred stricken communities fighting the ravages of flood waters and counting the mounting loss of lives and property.

Eighteen persons were known to be dead, and at least 18 others were missing in the surging storm waters. Other drownings at scattered points were reported as torrents tore away bridges, swept down streets into homes and stores and inundated many densely populated sections.

Elderly Victim Rescued Three of those hurled into the raging Los Angeles river from a 300-foot pedestrian bridge which gave way as they watched the waters below, were rescued. Admiral Claude Bloch told Long Beach police that an elderly man was rescued by a shore boat of the battleship Utah three miles at sea. He had grasped a timber from the collapsing bridge and was catapulted into the ocean by the raging current. The river, ordinarily dry, was flowing at a rate of 20 miles an hour.

In Escondido hospital at Long Beach were Lloyd Folkstedt, 26, and William Muniholland, 48 of Long Beach, suffering from exposure after they were picked up by naval shore boats. Three of the missing persons were John Croft, 50; P. E. Kay, both of Long Beach, and Lynn Stewart, 24, a visitor from New York.

The center of the bridge buckled and then collapsed after pilings gave away. Most witnesses agreed that a woman and a small boy and two or three enlisted men of the navy were among those engulfed. H. D. Mereson said there was a sharp warning crack and the crowd watching the river in its approach. Then the center of the span, 25 feet wide, shot up into the air and dropped. The victims were lost to sight immediately in the swirling waters.

Rail Traffic Halted Heavy rains extended from Ventura, 100 miles north, to San Clemente, south of Los Angeles on the coast highway, and back to the coastal range to the east, necessitating abandonment of many homes and toppling others into the flood waters.

Railway traffic out of Los Angeles was halted by undermined bridges and landslides. Principal highways in all directions were closed. Air service was at a standstill. Schools and stores were closed and thousands of automobiles stalled in flooded streets. Flood storage reservoirs were overflowing.

Airliner Still Missing

FRESNO, Calif.—(P)—A searching party looked toward a great mountain side 60 miles east of here Thursday, but snow and torrential rain thwarted an air search for a TWA skyliner which disappeared in a storm Tuesday night with nine persons aboard.

Red River Is Falling in Shreveport Area

SHREVEPORT, La.—(P)—The Red river, falling here after reaching its crest at 33.5 Tuesday night, threatened lowland dwellers further down its course Wednesday. Stages run at Coushatta, in Red River parish and at Colfax, Grant parish, where approximately 50 families feared the water would drive them from their homes.

Backwater went over highway 71 eight miles below Colfax Wednesday, but the road remained open to traffic. More than a mile of the highway, connecting Shreveport and Alexandria, was flooded at Bynum Woods.

Negro Civic Body Backing Project

Complaint Against Beer Joints Is Told by Edmond Davis

Edmond Davis, chairman of the negro civic council, said Thursday that the council was backing Will Cooper in his protest to the Hope city council against operation of beer and wine stands in the negro settlement of Hope outside the fire limits. Davis said Cooper and himself were spokesmen for the negro organization that appeared before the Hope city council Tuesday night. They told of much general racket, part of which was caused from operation of mechanical music boxes.

Following their protest the Hope city council adopted a resolution to be sent to Revenue Commissioner Z. M. McGonigal asking him to revoke beer and wine licenses at negro beer stands outside the fire limits of Hope. Davis said the negro civic body would negotiate with the Hope city council on any other matter that might come before the group.

C. E. Baker Is Only "Acting" as Chief

Spikes Rumors That He Has Withdrawn as Possible Candidate

C. E. Baker made it plain Thursday that he was only "acting" as chief of police of Hope since the resignation of John W. Ridgill. Mr. Baker said that several persons had told him of reports circulating that he was not considering running for sheriff of Hempstead county since he was "named" chief of police. Although he did not say definitely that he would be a candidate, Baker said he wanted it understood that he was still considering the race for sheriff.

Baker is filling the unexpired term of John W. Ridgill as chief. The term ends April 1. At that time there will be an "official" announcement as to the appointment of a chief of police.

NEW ORLEANS.—(P)—New Orleans March cotton opened Thursday at 9.32 and closed at 9.29. Spot closed steady and unchanged, middling 9.41.

Fred W. Allsopp Is Injured in Accident

WINTER HAVEN, Fla.—(P)—Hospital attaches reported Wednesday night Fred W. Allsopp of Little Rock, business manager of the Arkansas Gazette, was "resting comfortably" after treatment for a fractured hip. They said he likely will be confined for several weeks. He was admitted following a fall at the home of a son here.

School Carnival Delayed One Week

Annual Event Will Be Held March 11—Voting to Be Continued

The annual Hope High School carnival, scheduled to be held this Friday night, has been postponed until March 11 because of the district ten basketball tournament at Lewisville this week.

John Wilson, Jr., president of the student body, said that voting for candidates of king and queen for the carnival would continue. Voting places have been installed at Capital hotel, Hope Confectionery, Jacks Newsstand and Greene's Confectionery.

Any person is eligible to vote by paying one cent. A person can vote as many times as he wishes at a penny per vote. The money taken in will go to the Hope High School library fund and for operation of student activities.

CRANIUM CRACKERS

(In this series of Cranium Crackers with a courtroom query, unusual local statutes may alter slightly the legal decisions given.)

During a cross-country air race, Gerald Wilson, pilot of the Golden Arrow, was forced to the ground because of motor trouble. Wilson selected the most favorable appearing plot of ground below him and landed there.

Wilson's plane came down on pasture land owned by Harry Jones, but before it stopped it ran a short distance through the wheat field owned by George Brown. Both Jones and Brown sued Wilson for trespass.

Special Campaign for War Veterans

Unemployed Men Are Asked to Register With Hope Office

A special campaign for jobs for veterans is being undertaken by the National Reemployment Service, in cooperation with the major veterans' organizations of the country, according to announcement Thursday by G. T. Cross, manager of the district employment office at Hope.

Co-operating veterans' organizations are the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States; whose national and state officers are urging that all unemployed veterans visit their local Employment Service office for registration and consultation regarding positions in private industry which they may be qualified to fill.

Representatives of the Employment Service, both locally and throughout the state and nation, are daily contacting employers in the program to develop jobs for veterans, and to place in satisfactory jobs the unemployed veterans who are registered with the Service.

The Hope office is located at Main and Division streets, upstairs over Jack's Newsstand, and serves these Southwest Arkansas counties: Clark, Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette, Little River, Nevada, Pike, and Sevier. Mr. Blaine Ellington, interviewer, is Veterans' Placement representative for the Hope office. To establish veteran's preference it is necessary that unemployed veterans present their discharge papers at time of registration.

Employers and unemployed veterans are invited to make use of the facilities provided by the employment service. The service of "Matching Jobs and Men" is entirely free both to the worker and the employer.

African Witch Doctor Brings Down the Rain

GWELO, Southern Rhodesia.—(P)—A woman "witch doctor" known as "The Gogo" and revered for her "rain-making" abilities is credited by superstitious natives with breaking a drought shortly after she was tried and acquitted on a charge of practicing magic. "The Gogo" who maintained the charge against her was instigated by a rival witch doctor, made a pilgrimage to the sacred Matopo Hills after her acquittal to invoke the aid of Mjimo, the supreme spirit. And immediately there was rain.

Nazis Step Backward to Try a Clergyman

PROBABLY as much adverse criticism is directed at the American judicial system, the manner of conducting trials in the United States, as at any one division of the governmental system.

The courts are scolded for their ponderous slowness, the endless red tape, dockets which are years behind schedule, the blatant displays of showmanship in criminal trials and the peculiar tactics of attorneys before a jury.

All these criticisms have a basis of truth and some of them often are more than justified. But with all its faults and all its public spectacles, how near the acme of perfection our courts seem when compared with trial procedure in Nazi Germany.

There, in Berlin, the Rev. Martin Niemoller, Protestant minister, is on trial accused of sedition. Rev. Niemoller is no ordinary pastor, or better, no average pastor. During the World War he commanded a German U-boat. He was repeatedly decorated for valor. He is a tall, rigid figure, uncompromising and courageous in one of Berlin's richest Confessional pastorates. In his congregation are former military leaders of the old monarchy, army officers of the present period, Storm Troop commanders, bankers, industrialists and diplomats. There is no better-known nor more influential pastor in all Germany.

REV. NIEMOLLER has been arrested before, but this time he is tried on the sedition charge and the picture of his trial will amaze those unfamiliar with the Nazi methods.

His attorneys were barred from the courtroom, but later permitted to re-enter. All representatives of the church were likewise barred, but this rule was suspended to allow one Confessional clergyman to sit in the courtroom and hear the evidence. He had to take a special oath of silence and will be watched by secret political police to prevent his informing Confessional Church leaders of what goes on.

All possible measures have been taken to prevent the German public or the outside world from learning anything about the testimony except through official government bulletins. And contact with foreign correspondents will be constituted as an act of treason.

THESE star chamber trials in Germany are a step backward into the middle ages and the inquisition. Trials in the United States may fringe on the ridiculous now and then, but it can never be said the defendant doesn't have a chance to tell his side of the story and get it judged by jury and public alike.

The Casual Age

ONE of the most amazing things about the present generation, or age, is the casual way we accept the most magical of miracles.

Some one announces: "Television is here." So we accept television as being here. Actually we know it isn't exactly here, but we feel quite sure it is just around the corner for this is the age when anything, little matter how wonderful, can be perfected once conceived or begun.

Six "flying fortresses" of the United States Army Air Corps carrying 49 men hop off casually from Miami, fly 2695 miles to Lima, Peru, nonstop, land for six hours and continue the flight to Buenos Aires. The trip is a matter of hours and of small comment in this country.

Why not. Other airplanes hop around, here and there, across land and sea. We were told several years ago that big bombers would eventually be able to cruise thousands of miles in war or peace, without difficulty. The time has arrived unnoticed, that's all.

Science Knows Drafts, Quick Changes Affect Health—But Doesn't Know Why

(No. 464)
We are comfortable when the air conditions in a room are such that the human body can maintain a normal balance between the production and loss of heat without our being conscious of the fact that we are having any trouble maintaining this balance.

In order to be comfortable, as far as the air is concerned, there must be a suitable temperature and humidity, enough radiation of heat from the body and enough movement of the air. These factors may vary with various people, some of whom like rooms warm and others of whom like rooms colder.

We have no mechanism in the skin for regulating changes in humidity, but when the temperature is below 45, a high humidity makes the air feel cold. If the temperature is hot, a high humidity makes the air feel even warmer. Normal people generally prefer a low humidity to a high one.

People who suffer with inflammation of the sinuses and other infections of the nose and throat generally prefer a high humidity. When they get well, these same people prefer a low humidity. We do not know enough about this to use these facts in the treatment of such conditions. The tendency to dryness of the nose and throat under low humidities and the possible effect of low humidity on disturbances of the nose, throat and lungs should be investigated.

We know that moderately dry and cool air is fresh and invigorating, but that warm air is stuffy and depressing, no matter how pure it may be chemically. Bodily odors, odors from scorching dust on radiators, and odors from oil, gasoline, chemicals of various kinds in industrial regions make it difficult to get what is called fresh and pleasant air.

Apparently great contrasts such as those we experience when we pass from an overheated room to a cold outside air are harmful to the membranes of the nose and throat. Changes take place in the circulation of the blood, the circulatory system unable to resist germs which reach them from people who are infected.

Moreover, there has been the suggestion that rheumatic conditions are badly affected by sudden changes in temperature. Thus the higher rates for these diseases are seen among iron and steel workers, miners, outdoor laborers and others who are regularly exposed to sudden changes in temperature. Some people are better able to withstand these changes than are others.

For many years there has been a common belief that drafts are unhealthy, particularly drafts on the neck, back of the neck and the top of the head. The feet are most sensitive to drafts because they probably have poorer circulation of blood than any other portion of the body.

There are conditions of the nervous system associated with inability to function and temporary paralysis which may result from the constant draft of cold air over the area of the body controlled by these nerves.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

A Book Tells How to Enjoy Yourself.

If most Americans, like the bee, aren't improving each shining hour, it isn't the fault of the nation's authors and publishers, for the trend toward books on self-improvement shows no sign of diminishing.

The latest such work is "Managing Yourself," by Milton Wright (Whittlesey House, $2.50). In previous works by this erstwhile newspaperman and magazine editor, Wright has endeavored to teach his reader audience the art of conversation and getting along with people. His stated object, in his latest opus, is to tell you how to get along with yourself.

From the new Wright book, the reader who is incompatible with himself gets pointers on how to overcome the mental and physical obstacles that bar his path to successful living.

If he is an incessant reader of inspirational works, he will find in "Managing Yourself" many facts that he has learned before, together with a lot of new ones presented in lucid, compact and sensible fashion.

The reader who succumbs easily to fatigue learns that he must quit coddling himself, that striving for that "second wind" helps strengthen his character. He is told the magic formula for strengthening his power of concentration. The recipe is nothing new—practice, and more practice—but Wright's plausible arguments call the reader on its efficiency.

There are other instructive and interesting chapters on how to develop the memory and imagination; some horse sense on how to keep physically fit; tips on straight thinking and managing other people, and some concluding advice on how to get things done.—G. P.

For Love of Polly

CAST OF CHARACTERS
POLLY CHELSEY, heroine, stranded in London when war breaks out.
JERRY WHITEFIELD, hero, the Yankee who sees her through.
CABELL BANKS, privateer.

Yesterday Jerry and Cabell Banks, part and Jerry sailor for Connecticut, taking a British ship on the way.

CHAPTER XXX
JUST how Jerry Whitefield wondered, did the commander of an American privateer go about getting a visit home?

It was now high summer and he was far from Connecticut. He had new difficulties. The ship he had engaged in combat had received a broadside from one of the May Queens' long guns that wrecked her. There had been barely time to remove her officers and men to the May Queen before she sank.

"Very bad business," Jerry complained to his first mate. "Our gunners need practice." His thrifty Yankee nature revolted at sinking a good ship. Now that he had his own vessel, he had pledged himself to turn over all other captured prizes to his government.

The May Queen was again full of prisoners. Plainly, there was but one thing to do—put them ashore off the coast of France as he had done last other time. "This was accomplished but at the price of a fortnight of maneuvering. And then he chanced on another gun brig. But that is another story, leading to yet another.

Polly saw her father coming down the street, walking as usual with his two canes, and yet more urgently. He turned in at the picket gate, forgetting to shut it after him; and when Nuisance ran to meet him he frisked him away with his canes. Clearly, Tripod was not himself. And then Polly understood. He was holding out a letter to her.

She uttered a little cry, took the letter and broke the red seal. There fell out a folded sheet with a short message written on it:

"My dear Polly," said the elegant writing that was obviously not Jerry's. "I send you this letter from Jerry which I forgot to post four months ago. It was written during our last stop in Wilmington when I was hard pressed with worry and so I absent-mindedly put it with some papers to be left with my banker. Today on opening the packet I came on the letter. Words cannot express my regret. I hereby tender my apologies to you and shall tender the same to Jerry when I see him this evening on the Gray Gull. We are about to go our separate ways and I shall sorely miss the companionship of this man I have come to regard as a brother. As he is coming to you in person as fast as ship can take him, I shall leave him to recount our adventures since we parted from you. Your admiring and ob'd't s'v't, Cabell Banks, junior."

THEY examined the date of the letter now and began to speculate about Jerry's arrival. It had been written 12 days ago. Cabell had implied that Jerry was coming by ship. "Whose ship?" "What did it matter so long as he was coming!"

The air seemed charged with expectancy now. The little house with the overhanging second story became the scene of much activity. Polly elected to "clean house" while they waited for Jerry's ship to put in at Lyme, and she all but wore Tripod and Dick to the bone in her zeal. Floors and woodwork and windows were washed till they shone. The kitchen copper was scoured and polished. Window curtains were laundered and hung with infinite care.

"Is he comin' to see the house or you?" Tripod asked in irritation. "I never knew a man off a ship cared a continental whether he had window curtains or not."

"I want the Connecticut Chelseys to look as shipshape as the Massachusetts Whitefields," Polly answered. Yet they both knew it was to soothe her anxiety that she did these things, and to fill the days of restless waiting.

WHEN the house stood shining and spotless and she could think of nothing more to do to it, Polly bought a length of calico print to make herself a new frock. She looked longingly at some India muslin displayed in Mr. Pell's store; but now that these were no longer being imported from England, they were too dear for ordinary people to buy. "The calico will do very well," she told the clerk. "Now show me some buttons to trim it in, and some white stuff for a baby's dress."

Mrs. Pell came sweeping through the store presently and paused at the counter. Because she wished to have further conversation with Polly she decided to forgive her for that outburst they both remembered so well. She inquired now: "Are you buying stuff to make little Richard a dress, Polly?"

"No. He carries papers for privateer sailing."

"His own?" the question was intended merely as a humiliation. "He's been on a friend's privateer," Polly answered, "but he's leaving that now. I don't know what ship he plans to come to Lyme on, but I've had definite word that he's coming."

She turned her back pointedly on Mrs. Pell and went on with her shopping. (Foolish Polly! Forever yilling that small-souled, cruel woman who has it in her power to hurt you!)

IT seemed to Polly that she must hurry through her sewing with frantic speed. But when her dress was complete to the last button and when little Richard's was finished as well, she saw that she had been too hasty. She found herself with time on her hands each day when the housework was done. Small Richard was a good baby, not troublesome. He preferred to be let alone. Polly fell into the way of leaving him with his grandfather while she went down to the river and looked toward the Sound to see if a strange sail might be coming in. . . . One day she recalled a queer old woman of her childhood who had gone to the harbor every day to look for her lover who had been lost at sea 40 years before. And when Polly remembered this mad old woman she stopped going to the harbor and began busily putting up pear preserves instead.

She felt now that misfortune had surely overtaken Jerry, for it had been two months since Cabell's letter. Ships were getting into New England harbors with very little trouble. . . . No, he was not coming now. This fact Polly sensed and accepted. She laid away the calico print with the gay button—down its tight-fitting waist. She talked less and laughed not at all. Not even Mrs. Pell dared cross her when they met on the street, so still and brooding was her face.

Often at night Polly would read Jerry's letter—her one love letter—before she blew out her candle. Its edges were becoming frayed. "I must learn to live for the other three," she told herself. In a few months she would be 20 years old.

At sewing circle Mrs. Pell remarked with narrowed eyes: "The whole thing's a hoax. It's obvious she never had a husband. . . . A fine comedown for a good old family!" Mrs. Pell had never liked Polly's gentle London mother from the day she stepped off Tripod Chelsey's ship, and so it was easy to dislike the daughter.

Glamor Gals---With an Accent

This is the last of six stories on the foreign actresses imported by Hollywood, who place the accent on glamor.

By PAUL HARRISON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD.—With a peasant kerchief tied over her reddish head, and with a pensive smile of wonderment on her pretty face, Mireille Balin looks exactly like Hollywood's idea of an immigrant girl. Which she is.

About three months ago, when she came here to try to earn her living in the sweatshops of the cinema, Mlle. Balin had most of her worldly possessions done up in 28 trunks. She was a lonely little figure, unaccompanied except by a staff of servants.

After many wearying hours of searching for lodgings suitable to her means, she finally rented a 10-room cottage with an ordinary outdoor swimming pool.

Then, because everybody in this far-flung film center has to have a car of some sort, Mlle. Balin again dipped into her savings and bought an Hispano-Suiza no bigger than a ten-ton truck.

She "Seldom" Goes Out
Although she says that she does not have much money—not so much, anyway, but that she has to work to get more—Mlle. Balin seems quite a lot better off than most other newcomers from Europe. Or maybe this one is a spendthrift. Of course she earned a great many francs during her three years of picture making in France.

"The actress explained that she has been very busy here, what with three hours of English study every day, and a singing lesson, and makeup and screen tests, and seeing selected movies and reporting to Billy Grady, foreign talent supervisor."

This was the first interview Metro had permitted. It had not, however, withheld her from social circulation. She said:

"I never go to parties or night clubs—only maybe two, three times a week."

In Paris, after posing for a few advertisements in color, Mlle. Balin was sought out and hired by the noted French director, Pabst. Her first picture, she said, was "Donkey Show," "Donkey Show?" "But yes—'Donkey Show.'" She took my pencil and wrote it out—"Don Quixote."

Likes What She Likes
She became a star soon after that. Made one appearance with Fernand Gravet. Her greatest success was "Pepe le Moko," which has been shown in many metropolitan centers of this country. Word has come to her, she says, that when her English has improved Louis B. Mayer intends putting her into a picture with Spencer Tracy or Clark Gable.

"I hope eat ces true," she said. "Thees Tracy ces my best actor, but also Paul Muni. They say I am not to speak to Paul Muni because eet ces not for thees studio he works. But I like what he like—no?" Yes.

She has—or had—tremendous vitality and vivacity. At four or five meals a day and was never still a minute. Now her appetite has dwindled to three meals, and she has lost five pounds, and cannot sleep at night. "No pep," mourned Mlle. Balin. "Pep?—kay? I like slang. In two weeks maybe I am dead."

In films, she explained, she always has been a little vamp. She is not an actress dramatic. The makeup experts here have been conducting some alarming experiments with her. "They put my eyebrow up; they put my eyebrow down; they make my hair so (tight back), and so (loose to the shoulders) and so (windblown). They geove me ze beeg mouse (mouth). On ze screen I doze know myself."

Often she "No Understand"
Her belief is that she is not temperament, but she also admitted that she is one of the "I-do-not-understand" girls. This no-saves business is an old and exasperating device employed by several imported sirens, notably Simone Simon, who have had trouble with their employers and di-

Mireille Balin was just a lonely immigrant girl who came to Hollywood with 28 trunks and a staff of servants. The film colony hasn't seen much of Mireille yet, but scouts report that when she appeared on the beach at Cannes the gendarmes had to throw a guard around her.

rectors.

Mireille Balin believes, at this time, that it's the easiest way to get along. She explained frankly that if someone tries to make her do something she does not want to do, she says, "I do not understand." When asked a question she doesn't care to answer, she replies, "I do not understand."

The actress tried to justify this strategy with a rather curious explanation. "I do not," she said, "because I hate lies."

Gifts From Her Dog
Miss Balin says she is neither married nor engaged. She wears what appears to have been a man's heavy platinum ring mounting a diamond of 1 1/2 carats. Asked about it, she grinned and said, "You can write that my dog gave eet to me."

That's her every-day ring. For Sundays, holidays and a flash at the Trocadero, she has a diamond of 1 1/2 carats. Another present from her dog.

That figure hasn't yet been photographed in Hollywood, but returned travelers bear news of it. They declared that whenever she appeared on the beach at Cannes the gendarmes had to rope off and guard a space around her. Concessionaries would have a field day renting spyglasses.

THE END.

Grand Jury Refuses

The charge filed against Mrs. Kelly, last November accused her of wounding J. R. Page, 68, on the porch of her home at nearby Mineral Springs.
She had been at liberty under $500 bail pending the grand jury inquiry. Mrs.
Kelly formerly was Mrs. J. M. Rivers.
Mrs. Kelly, officers said, reported she had "a disagreement" with Page, who was described by Governor Rivers as a distant kinsman. The governor said his district was "entirely justified" in the shooting.

Page denied he was "at fault, in any way."

A total of 32 indictments were returned by the grand jury before the body adjourned.

Court will convene Monday at which time civil cases will be tried.

Sheila MacDonald, youngest daughter of the late Ramsay MacDonald, has

Former University Girl Is Found Dead

Body of Mary Boyd Found
With Bullet Wound
Through Head

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. —(AP)— Miss Mary Boyd, 32, of Fayetteville, once prominent in athletics at the University of Arkansas, was found dead, a bullet through her head, in her parked automobile on highway 16 near here late Wednesday.

Coroner Glenn Riggs said death was caused by self-inflicted gunshot wounds. Sheriff Herbert Lewis said Miss Boyd clutched a revolver in her hand when the body was found by a university professor and student. The sheriff said Miss Boyd's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Boyd, told him she had previously threatened to take her own life. She was a graduate of the university.

Her parents, one brother and two sisters survive.
Miss Boyd formerly was a nurse at the veterans hospital here but was forced to give up her position due to ill health. She was the first girl in the history of the school to win a letter for her athletic ability and had won numerous medals in athletic events.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it evidence of good breeding for a shopper to criticize everything the saleswoman shows her?
2. Is it good taste to wear conspicuous street clothes?
3. When sitting at a soda fountain in a drug store, is it necessary for a man to take off his hat?
4. Should a woman try to carry on a conversation with a friend while sitting under a dryer at a beauty parlor?
5. Is it considerate to rush into a store or office just at closing time and expect the clerk to work overtime?

What would you do if—You are an employee in a beauty parlor, store or office where a customer keeps leading the conversation into gossip and confidential channels—
(a) Answer briefly with "yes" and "no" or say you don't know?
(b) Say, "I'm sorry, we aren't allowed to discuss such matters here?"
(c) Lead the customer on?

around the world, and since 1937 a World Day of Prayer has been observed. In 1936 Christians of more than fifty countries kept the day together, using the same program, which was distributed through the various denominational mission boards.

The day begins in New Zealand and the Fiji Islands, and as the day progresses, new groups in city, town, country, hamlet, join in praise and prayer until after some forty hours the day ends at Gambell on St. Lawrence Island off the coast of Alaska thirty miles from the date-line and about the same distance from the Arctic Circle.

This year the Call to Prayer, issued by the Interdenominational committee, asks that prayers be offered round the world (1) "For the revitalizing of the church in the homeland; (2) For the strengthening of the church in the world as the interpreter of love that can change hearts and bring world peace; (3) For the drawing together of Christians everywhere to work together for the building of the Kingdom on earth; (4) For everyone who through study, service and prayer is sharing in the work of the church throughout the world; (5) For a clearer understanding of God's will for the world today.

The lamprey is a most unusual fish.
Its mouth is a tube-shaped suction cup, edged with horn-like teeth. The creature attaches itself to other fish, and rasps away their flesh with the sharp teeth. After a hole is made, it enters the victim's body and continues to feed unnoted.

Titled Victims of Plane Crash

Trapped in the flaming wreckage of an airplane which crashed in attempting to land near the William Randolph Hearst ranch at San Luis Obispo, Calif., Lord and Lady Plunkett, of England, above, and Pilot T. J. Phillips were burned to death before rescuers could reach them. Fog was blamed for the crash that took the lives of the titled Britishers, visitors to the Hearst ranch.

Boy Scout Drive

in boys can do all that needs to be done for them by spending money directly upon them. Money which is spent, or contributed, to worthy enterprises for educating and training the youth of our land is as well spent as that money with which food and shelter are provided. That money which is devoted to churches, Sunday Schools, Y. M. C. A.'s, and Boy Scout organizations is invested in true futures.

Boys like to live close to nature. It is easy for a boy to feel at home in the woods; with dogs and horses, building bird houses, and tinkering with electrical apparatus. Learning to be the kind of men, however, that they must be in town and city life—selling goods, keeping books, teaching school, and practicing law—learning to be urbanites is a much more complicated process, and a more difficult adjustment.

Bashful boys, especially need occasional opportunities to get out into the open air, close to nature, with a group of congenial boys. A Boy Scout troop, under Christian leadership, affords the boy an opportunity to develop personality, initiative, co-operativeness, and appreciation of God's great world.
Boy Scouts are on their honor as Scouts, they feel that falsehood, deceit, or any form of dishonesty is out of the question. It is, of course, true that

Christian boys have a still higher ideal—that of being honest and honorable because they are sons of God—
Royal Ambassadors of King Jesus Christ, their Elder Brother. For boys, however, who have not yet been brought to the acceptance of the highest idealism, the Boy Scout organization furnishes an intermediate appeal which will assist in the building of character.

Our church is glad to sponsor a Scout troop as an auxiliary to the other work which we seek to do for and with boys. The enrollment of our troop is 13, of whom 5 are members of our Sunday school and church.
They hold weekly meetings under the supervision of Scoutmaster Henry Haynes. Other boys between the ages of 12 and 18 are invited to unite with one of these two.

General Pershing Is Much Improved

Will Return to "Reasonable State of Health," Says Doctor

TUCSON, Ariz.—(P)—General John J. Pershing, who once boasted cavalry officers were so tough "the only way to get rid of one is to shoot him," showed so much improvement his physicians talked of a protracted period of convalescence and return to "a reasonable state of health."

Legal Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 528

An Ordinance to be An Ordinance Entitled, An Ordinance to Prohibit the Parking of Automobiles and OR Placing Obstructions on the Right-of-Way On West Third Street, From the Point Where Said Street Intersects Washington Avenue, to the West Boundary Line of the City of Hope, and For Other Purposes.

WHEREAS, Third Street in the City of Hope is designated as State Highway No. 67, through said City, and the traffic thereon is very heavy; and WHEREAS, the parking of automobiles and or placing obstructions on the right-of-way of said street from the point where said street intersects Washington Avenue to the West boundary line of the City of Hope, Arkansas, renders traffic thereon extremely dangerous to life and property;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF HOPE, ARKANSAS:

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to park an automobile, wagon, or other vehicle and or place any obstruction on the right-of-way of Third Street from the point where said street intersects Washington Avenue to the West boundary line of the City of Hope, Arkansas.

Section 2. That any person violating this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined in any sum not less than $5.00, nor more than $25.00; and each day such obstruction is left on said right-of-way shall constitute a separate offense.

Section 3. That all ordinances and/or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed; and this ordinance being necessary for the public health, safety, and general welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Hope, and the general public, using said street, an emergency is hereby declared, and this ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication.

Passed and approved this 1st day of March 1938.

Published in the Hope Star this 3d day of March 1938.

Used Cars Must Look Good, Too

DETROIT—The automotive industry long has recognized the influence which women exert in the selection of motor cars, and each year has seen greater emphasis on the style, comfort, and appearance factors which mean so much to feminine buyers. It has remained for Ray Whyte, proprietor of Eastern Chevrolet Co., Detroit, to apply this fact to his used car operations, by appointing a young woman to check each reconditioned used car, inside and out, before it is offered for sale. Miss Rosemary Melford, who does that unusual job, is shown checking over the interior of a car whose upholstery has gone through the mending, vacuum cleaning, and scrubbing which these units receive in addition to mechanical adjustment and repair.

S. U. Marietta, who was ordered here by the war department eight days ago, announced plans to return by train Thursday to his post at San Antonio, Texas.

Major General Herbert J. Brees, commander of the eighth corps area, San Antonio, also planned to leave. Railroad equipment which he had arranged for in case of General Pershing's death was released.

"The general is still a very ill man but for the immediate present it seems quite safe to leave," General Brees said.

General Pershing's nephew, Frank left for Palm Springs, Calif. An only son, Warren, of New York, was smiling broadly as he bade his cousin goodbye.

Crippled Youth Rides Many Hobbies

KENDALLVILLE, Ind.—(P)—Although Jack Preston, 20, was given up as "dead" seven times and has been crippled 13 years as a result of arthritis and complications, he has become a manufacturer of model airplanes, stamp collector and inventor of living room games.

Construction of model airplanes, Preston says, "have become mere play." Some time ago he built 37 planes and sold each for $1.50. His collection of 10,000 stamps has been valued at more than $300. He has invented such games as table basketball, table hockey, table track and table softball.

Oldest almanacs in manuscript form date from the 13th century.

KIDNEY ACIDS!

You Must Keep Them Flushed Out if You Would Enjoy Good Health

If badly functioning kidneys cause you to get up two or three times a night and your back aches together with acidity, itching and smarting, probably all you need is a good kidney stimulant and diuretic. Nowadays thousands of wise Americans at the first sign of kidney and bladder disorder, start taking good old RAMON'S BROWNIE PILLS for the kidneys. They cost but 35 cents, and must be good or druggists wouldn't sell so many of them.

Engineer Drowns in Fall From Boat

James Slayton, 20, Loses Life in River Near Osceola

BLYTEVILLE, Ark.—James Slayton, 20, member of a United States Engineers surveying party and the only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Slayton of Joiner, drowned in the Mississippi river Wednesday when he fell from the United States dredge boat "Ockerson," several miles south of Osceola.

No one saw him fall, but he was seen in the water by fellow workers, who threw lines to him. The current pulled him under before a line reached him and he never came up.

Slayton was reared at Joiner, where his parents have lived many years. His father is a constable and farmer. After his graduation from Shawnee High School at Joiner, Slayton attended the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville.

He is survived also by two sisters, the Misses Miriam and Evelyn Slayton, both of Joiner.

Princesses See London With Queen Mary's Aid

LONDON—(P)—Queen Mother Mary is smoothing the road to learning for her granddaughters, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose.

Eager for the into know their London, Queen Mary guided them to various spots of interest last fall and now she plans visits to Broadcasting House, the general post office and a fire station.

The young Princesses got a taste of Shakespeare recently when their mother, Queen Elizabeth, took them to a performance of "Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Old Vic. And whenever they go motoring these days, they are covered with a new lap robe which bears an outline map of Australia.

The Battle of Hastings, in which the Norman invaders of England conquered the Anglo-Saxons in 1066, is depicted in the famous Bayeux tapestry.

Gassy Stomach?

Anadarko, Okla. Jesse Bravers, 122, of Oklahoma St., says: "After eating there would be a soreness in my stomach and I would belch gas. I felt pretty bad, had no appetite, no energy. I used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and my appetite returned. I ate and slept better and felt O.K. in every way." Ask your druggist for it.
